Market Review - Equities

Financial markets rose under volatile conditions in the first half of 2023, with the MSCI World Index up 15%, and the MSCI Europe Index up just under 11%, taking it just short of its record high level. Emerging Markets registered positive performance but lagged the wider global markets.

Global Equities - Period in Review

The strong performance of technology stocks was a major driver of the market's gains. However, it is important to note that this strong performance was mainly driven by a small number of names.

Headline CPI came in at 4.0% year over year (YoY) in June, helped by the base effect as energy prices fell off this year. Core CPI is still sticky at 5.3% YoY, but the markets took the news as positive, hoping that shelter costs will eventually subside and some falls in core services prices will follow.

The Federal Reserve paused on any rate hikes in June but is expected to hike again in July. On the data front, it is now looking more likely that a slowdown is coming. Services Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) is falling back towards contractionary territory (ISM Services at 50.3), while manufacturing is already at lower levels with reduced demand and the supply glut. Despite this, non-farm payrolls came in higher than expected (339k), showing that employment levels remain robust.

Global Equities - Market Outlook

Solid macroeconomic indicators, softening inflation readings, and a US Federal Reserve (the Fed) "pause" created the perfect platform for global stocks to surge in June (+6%). The strong U.S. retail sales and resilient job market are encouraging signs that the economy is still growing, despite the headwinds of inflation. The Fed's decision to "pause" interest rate hikes for now also helped to boost investor sentiment.

We remain confident that inflation will continue to fall in the coming months. Core inflation readings have already started to improve, and we believe that the recent decline in commodity prices will help to further reduce inflationary pressures. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) has forecast that global inflation will fall from 8% to 7% in 2023. Most countries are expected to be back to target by 2025. While we continue to monitor wage growth as a key source of risk, we have not seen any alarming signals in the recent trends.

We believe that the long-term outlook for the stock market remains positive. The companies that are solving the greatest challenges are also the ones that are most likely to be profitable. We expect the rally in stocks to broaden out from here, but only to those names that can deliver revenues and turn them into earnings and returns. We are focused on companies that can produce resilient revenues driven by exposure to structural, sustainable themes and high-quality operations that can turn revenue growth into earnings.

European Equities - Period in Review

Despite persistent calls for a broad-based recession, European earnings are up ~30% since January 2022, when fears over the economic outlook first arose. That is to say, that even if a mild recession, with approximately 15-20% of earnings per share (EPS) drawdown were to begin today, earnings would still trough above levels when recession calls started.

Headline and core inflation have decelerated over the past six to nine months. Similar to the inflationary bear markets of the 1970s, the stock market could well have bottomed once inflation peaked and started to roll over.

Whilst the European Central Bank (ECB) may be nearing the end of the rate-hiking cycle, European PMI indices continue to offer a mixed picture, with the manufacturing decline worsening, albeit set against an improving inventory backdrop. The services PMI remains above 50 (expansionary territory) but confidence remains fragile. The economies of Europe continue to walk a tightrope.

The market's positive performance year-to-date was focused almost exclusively around just 2 sectors, technology (+25%) and consumer discretionary (+21%).

Within technology, performance was headlined by the semiconductor-exposed stocks Infineon, ST Micro and ASML, boosted by comments from Nvidia regarding the attractive outlook for advanced microchip demand from the artificial intelligence industry.

The strong performance of the consumer discretionary sector was, by contrast, broad-based ranging from clothing retailers H&M and Inditex to automotive manufacturers BMW and Ferrari to luxury goods company Hermes. Key underperformers were Real Estate (-10%) and Energy (-4%).

Interestingly, the Banks sector held up well in the face of marked turbulence through March following the collapse of Silicon Valley Bank in the US and Credit Suisse in Europe.

European Equities - Market Outlook

Inflation readings should continue to fall in the coming months. Core inflation has already started to improve, and we believe that the recent decline in commodity prices will help to further reduce inflationary pressures. The IMF has forecast that global inflation will fall from 8% to 7% in 2023. Most countries are expected to be back to target by 2025. While we continue to monitor wage growth as a key source of risk, we have not seen any alarming signals in the recent trends.

In addition, stock market valuations do not look excessive. The European Stoxx 600 index is trading below its 12-month forward price-earnings averages (since 2013), and whilst there may be some earnings risk, that feels like a reasonable starting point. Further, we like the complexion of the portfolio and believe our companies are well-positioned to demonstrate real agility and resilience, whatever might happen in the macro environment.

Emerging Markets - Period in Review

Emerging Asia ex China and Latin America led the Global Emerging Markets asset class with particular strength in Korea, Taiwan, Poland, Brazil and Argentina. Conversely, China, Turkey and Thailand underperformed.

Despite an uncertain background of mixed macro data, geopolitical tensions and monetary policy which could remain higher for longer, certain risk assets performed surprisingly strongly. In particular, defensive and growth styles outperformed in emerging markets as enthusiasm towards China's reopening faded and concerns about the China economy gradually increased.

The first half of 2023 culminated in a strong rally that was shaped by excitement towards moderating inflation, the Artificial Intelligence theme and rising prospects of an economic soft landing.

Emerging Markets - Market Outlook

The near term outlook for emerging markets will likely be shaped by the trajectory of USD strength, the pace of recovery in China and the continued reform agenda in key emerging markets.

Earnings have recently been cut for December 2023 as a result of continued USD strength and a slow recovery in China. China's initial recovery momentum waned visibly in April and May with services continuing to outperform manufacturing and limited recovery in the property sector. Consensus expectations point to a weaker CNY profile for the second half of 2023 which will likely add to a delayed earnings recovery for the broader Chinese market. However, such disappointment is arguably now in the price with MSCI China de-rating back to approx. 9.3x forward P/E (approx. 20% discount to overall emerging markets).

There remains room for China to surprise positively looking ahead. Firstly, there are growing signs that policy easing is imminent and will likely be introduced counter cyclically. Secondly, the private sector continues to flourish and its embedded dynamism to unleash productivity can serve as a counter to structural headwinds.

We remain enthusiastic about the prospects for a cyclical recovery in earnings in two key markets – Korea and Taiwan. Both markets have performed well following last year's trough in valuations with key business models in both geographies performing well and an exciting new product cycle dynamic of Artificial Intelligence tech spending likely to drive valuations higher.

India and Indonesia are two markets supported by macroeconomic environments that will increasingly support sustained strong economic growth in consumption and business investment. Whilst valuations of both markets have re-rated, we find pockets of opportunities in each market that can be considered compelling. India and Indonesia will face elections next year which represents a potential threat as political risk premia could climb – we remain watchful in both markets.

The outlook for Brazil remains optimistic too – fiscal discipline has surprised positively whilst inflation has moderated which opens up the possibility for an interest rate cutting cycle to support risk assets further.

Market Review – Fixed Income Period in Review

The first half of 2023 has been marked by ongoing global inflation pressures which has led to central banks keeping rates higher than the market had expected. In March, the sell-off in global government bond markets came to an abrupt end as fears over the several regional and medium sized banks in the US took center stage. The US front end in particular benefitted with the US 2 year note posting the largest drop in yields in recent history, rallying about 140 basis points from peak to trough. Since then, governments bonds have sold off yet again and broadly ended the period close to the pre march-peak. Credit spreads have been marginally tighter over the period, with positive excess returns for fixed income due to carry.

Market Outlook

Inflation seems to be meaningfully falling in the US and the economy seems to be faring better than expected, giving more credit to the potential of a soft landing. We are expecting to be near peak rate for the US and ECB, and are therefore expecting returns from rates to be broadly supportive in the coming year. Even though the economy is currently faring better than expected, there is a reasonable probability of recession/ stress to come, and therefore spreads of more highly levered companies may widen from here.

During the period, our overweight in Health Care detracted from performance. Within stock selection, notable contributors over the first half of the year were NVIDIA and Verisk while detractors included Charles Schwab and Enphase Energy.

NVIDIA was the fund's top contributor. It is exposed to our Efficiency theme, developing cutting edge chips to allow for increasing computational power whilst also improving energy efficiency. Their chips will be vital in continuing the exponential growth in computing power, by allowing data to be analysed in real time and at faster rates. In May 2023, the company announced a very large AI-led data center growth acceleration. The company expects second-quarter revenue to be around USD $11 billion, which would be up 64% year over year -this uplift is primarily driven by unsatiated demand for NVIDIA's latest H100 data centre GPU. NVIDIA are capitalizing on their dominance in the market for graphics chips designed for complex computing tasks required to power AI applications by democratizing access to AI related software and allowing a wide array of use cases to be developed.

We continue to believe our multi thematic deep integration approach highlights diversified companies that are resilient in terms of their earnings and growth outlooks. As such we remain comfortable with our portfolio positioning in this volatile macro environment but continue to look for long term opportunities with near term catalysts in new and existing names.

GIB AM Sustainable World Corporate Bond Fund

We initially performed well as spreads rallied over the first 6 weeks of the year and we benefitted due to our overweight credit risk. We then reduced our risk as spreads looked to be at the tight end of their range, which led to us navigating the market sell off well during the March banking crisis. However, from late April we have seen a substantial compression in HY and EM corporate spreads where we have remained underweight as we have kept our cautious outlook, which has led to underperformance against the benchmark.

The top 3 contributors to our returns for the period are EDP, Trane, and Volvo.

The 3 worst contributors to our returns for the period are Millicom, Cable & Wireless Communications, and CNP.

The registered strong performance across all time periods and outperformed the MSCI Emerging Markets Index by 9.01% over the Reporting Period. This outperformance was predominantly driven by stock selection vs. asset allocation with its relative contribution over 90%. In particular, positive attribution was generated in India, Taiwan and Brazil.

India contributed 4.73% of our relative attribution which was driven by our positions in Cyient, Polycab and APL Apollo Tubes. Stock selection contributed more than 95% of our relative returns in India over the period. Taiwan contributed 3.69% of our relative attribution. Again, this was shaped by our stock selection in Taiwan contributing more than 100% of the excess returns generated over the period. In particular, our positions in eMemory, Aspeed and Parade performed well. Brazil contributed 1.14% of our relative attribution, again driven by stock selection. Our position in Locaweb contributed the bulk of this outperformance.

We remain optimistic about the positioning of the fund. Our investment process remains committed to its tested two-pillar process which, firstly identifies undervalued business through its fundamentally driven bottom up approach, and secondly seeks to generate additional alpha by partnering with all portfolio companies on material Sustainability and operational improvements.

GIB AM European Focus Fund

The fund had an encouraging start to 2023, outperforming its benchmark by +3.87%, net of fees, since inception on the 18th January.

Promisingly, the portfolio's performance during the period was relatively broad-based with most companies demonstrating strong execution. Particularly noteworthy were excellent results from luxury goods companies LVMH and Hermes, posting organic sales growth of ~20% year on year in Q1, as well as an outstanding result from Atlas Copco where both organic orders and revenues grew well-above consensus expectations.

On the other hand, a slew of profit warnings in the chemicals and life-science sectors, centred around prolonged customer inventory destocking, hurt portfolio holdings Croda, IMCD and Spirax-Sarco (see below for details).

In recent weeks we attended Capital Markets Day presentations from portfolio holdings Dassault Systemes, Diploma and Spirax-Sarco. All three events reinforced our conviction in the excellent long-term prospects for these businesses.

Turnover in the half year has been de minimis. The general trend has been to reallocate capital from companies that have seen stellar performance and those that have underperformed. To this end we have reduced our position sizes in Ferrari and Melrose and increased the weighting of IMCD. We also increased the position in Costco when the company went through a brief period of relative weakness.

CONDENSED INTERIM REPORT AND UNAUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

For the financial period from 1 January 2023 to 30 June 2023

The authorised share capital of the ICAV 500,000,000,000 participating Shares of no par value. Non-participating Shares do not entitle the holders thereof to any dividend and on a winding up entitle the holders thereof to receive the consideration paid therefor but do not otherwise entitle them to participate in the assets of the ICAV. The Directors have the power to allot shares in the capital of the ICAV on such terms and in such manner as they may think fit.

Swing pricing

The Sub-Funds may suffer a reduction in value, known as "dilution" when trading the underlying investments as a result of net inflows or net outflows of the respective Sub-Funds. This is due to transaction charges and other costs that may be incurred by liquidating and purchasing the underlying assets and the spreads between the buying and selling prices. In order to counter this effect and to protect Shareholders' interests, the Manager may adopt a swing pricing mechanism as part of its valuation policy.

7. Tax

Under current law and practice, the ICAV qualifies as an investment undertaking as defined in Section 739B of the Taxes Consolidation Act, 1997, as amended. On that basis it is not chargeable to Irish tax on its income or capital gains.

However, Irish tax may arise on the happening of a "chargeable event" in the ICAV. A chargeable event includes any distribution payments to shareholders or any encashment, redemption, cancellation or transfer of shares, and the holding of shares at the end of each eight-year period beginning with the acquisition of the shares.

No Irish Tax will arise on the ICAV in respect of chargeable events in respect of:

- A shareholder who is neither Irish resident nor ordinarily resident in Ireland for tax purposes, at the time of the chargeable event, provided that appropriate valid declarations in accordance with the provisions of the Taxes Consolidation Act, 1997, as amended, are held by the ICAV.
- Certain exempted Irish resident shareholders who have provided the ICAV with the necessary signed statutory declarations.

Dividends and capital gains (if any) received on investments made by the ICAV may be subject to withholding taxes imposed by the country from which the investment income or capital gains are received, and such taxes may not be recoverable by the ICAV.

8. Financial Risk Management

The Investment Manager use the same risk management techniques and continuous risk monitoring as set out in ICAV's audited financial statements for the year ended 31 December 2022. These condensed financial statements should be read in tandem with the audited financial statements.

9. Fair Value Hierarchy

IFRS 13- Fair Value Measurement, establishes a three-tier fair value hierarchy that prioritises the inputs to valuation techniques to measure fair value. The hierarchy gives the highest priority to unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities (Level 1 measurement) and lowest priority to unobservable inputs (Level 3 measurement). Investments measured and reported at fair value are classified and disclosed in one of the following fair value hierarchy levels based on the significance of the inputs used in measuring their fair value:

CONDENSED INTERIM REPORT AND UNAUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

- Level 1- Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets that are accessible at the measurement date for identical, unrestricted assets or liabilities;
- Level 2- Quoted prices in markets that are not active or financial instruments for which all significant inputs are observable, either directly or indirectly. Fair value is determined through the use of models or other valuation methodologies;
- Level 3- Prices or valuations that require inputs that are both significant to the fair value measurement and are unobservable. Unobservable inputs are developed based on the best information available in the circumstances and reflect the Sub-Funds' own assumptions about how market participants would be expected to value the asset or liability.

An investment is always categorised as Level 1, 2 or 3 in its entirety. In certain cases, the fair value measurement for an investment may use a number of different inputs that fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, an investment's level within the fair value hierarchy is based on the lowest level of input that is significant to the fair value measurement. There was no transfer between levels during the financial period.

In relation to assets and liabilities not measured at fair value, cash and cash equivalents have been classified as level 1 and all other assets and liabilities have been classified as level 2.

As there were no Level 3 securities held in the Sub-Funds during the financial periods ended 30 June 2023 and 31 December 2022, a table of movements in Level 3 investments is not required to be presented. There were no transfers between levels during the financial period.

Supplementary Information

Set-up costs

For the Sub-Funds in accordance with IFRS, all authorisation expenses must be debited to the Statement of Comprehensive Income in the first year of operations, resulting in a difference between the published Net Asset Value of the Funds' share classes, which amortise the fees over a period of three years from the launch date of the relevant Fund, and the Net Asset Value in these financial statements. This difference will be reduced each financial year for three years until the authorisation expenses are fully amortised in the published Net Asset Value.
